STONE PRO

Block Vacuum Process (FRP Manufacturing)

Vacuum Bond Epoxy is an extremely low-viscosity system with superior penetration that protects fragile stones and enhances the natural beauty of the stone.

Vacuum Bond Epoxy provides vacuum treatment for stone blocks. The resin penetrates deeply into thin cracks, removes air bubbles, and strengthens the block structure.

Vacuum Bond Epoxy helps prevent crack development during cutting and processing, ensuring improved durability and long-lasting performance.

Why It Matters

- ✓ Exceptional strength & reliability
- ✓ Uniform resin distribution
- ✓ Premium surface quality

Vacuum Bagging Film

Vacuum Bagging Films are used to seal the whole of the composite laminate, including the other vacuum consumables, to the tooling surface.

A vacuum is then applied in order to apply atmospheric pressure to the component. This pressure can be increased in an autoclave, or maintained for a standard, one-atmosphere cure cycle at the chosen cure temperature.

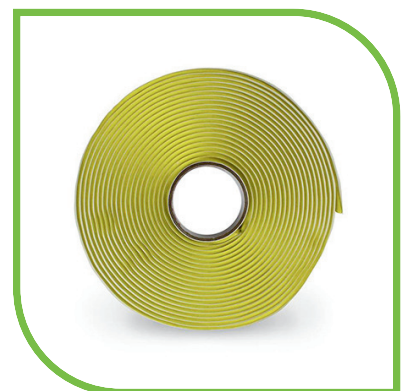

Due to their good temperature resistance, cost effectiveness, ease of use and low air permeability (necessary to achieve a good quality laminate and vacuum integrity), Nylon films are susceptible to variations in humidity, since moisture is used as a natural plasticizer.

Sealant Tape – High Temp & Low Temp

Sealant Tape – High Temp is a premium heat-resistant sealing tape specially designed for vacuum infusion and composite manufacturing applications.

It provides a strong and reliable airtight seal between the vacuum bag and mold, ensuring efficient resin flow and leak-free performance. Engineered for excellent adhesion, easy application, clean removal, and long service life, it delivers dependable performance across a wide range of industrial applications.

Vacuum Inlet Port

The Vacuum Inlet Port is an essential component used in vacuum infusion and composite manufacturing systems. It ensures smooth and controlled resin flow into the vacuum system while maintaining a secure and leak-proof connection.

Manufactured from durable, high-quality materials, it offers reliable performance, easy installation, and long service life for various industrial applications.

Feed Hose Pipe

Feed Hose Pipe is specially designed for vacuum infusion and composite manufacturing applications, ensuring smooth and efficient resin flow during the production process.

Manufactured from high-quality materials, it offers excellent flexibility, durability, and reliable performance for industrial use.

Top Surface Sealer

Premium-quality Sealer specially formulated to provide a smooth, durable, and protective surface finish for Italian marble and granite applications. Offers excellent adhesion, reliable sealing performance, and long-lasting durability for industrial use.
